

Did You Know?

The origins of Black Gay Pride can be traced back to the early 1990s. The first known Black Gay Pride event was organized in Washington, D.C., in 1991, under the name "DC Black Gay Pride."

It was founded by a group of Black LGBTQ+ activists and community members who wanted to provide safe spaces specifically for Black LGBTQ+ individuals, acknowledging and celebrating their unique cultural experiences within the broader LGBTQ+ community.

Black Gay Pride celebrations often coincide with or are held separately from mainstream Pride events.

This dual celebration allows for a focus on intersectional issues faced by Black queer individuals, including racism, homophobia, and the importance of community support and empowerment.
